Code of Conduct

1. Our Standards

Employees are expected to demonstrate integrity, accountability, professionalism and respect in all work-related interactions.

2. Respectful Workplace

Treat colleagues, customers, vendors and visitors fairly. Discrimination, bullying, harassment and retaliation are prohibited. Concerns should be reported through the appropriate manager, HR contact or grievance channel.

3. Conflicts of Interest

Disclose any personal, financial or outside activity that could improperly influence business decisions. Do not use your role for personal gain.

4. Gifts and Business Courtesies

Follow company approval rules for gifts, meals, travel or other benefits. Never offer or accept anything intended to improperly influence a decision.

5. Confidentiality and Privacy

Access information only when needed for your role. Share personal, customer and company data only with authorized recipients and approved tools.

6. Company Assets

Use devices, software, funds and facilities responsibly. Follow licensing, cybersecurity and records-retention requirements.

7. Reporting Concerns

Raise suspected misconduct promptly and in good faith. The organization should handle reports sensitively and prohibit retaliation against people who report concerns honestly.

8. Acknowledgment

Employees may be asked to confirm that they have received and understood the official code of conduct.